1. Introduction. The global food system faces significant stressors in population growth, limited land and water resources, rising demand for animal products, overreliance on fossil fuels, and a changing climate (Foley et al., 2011, Neff et al., 2011). In addition, seafood production has changed substantially over the last few decades.

In order to help our students to prepare for the IB exams, it is important that we understand how questions are determined from the curriculum guide. Below is a short explanation of how this is done and examples are given. In the online textbook, there is also a section on SAQs, ERQs and Paper 3 for students to help them to better understand the assessment criteria.

Keeping Sensitive Information Out of the Hands of Terrorists Through Self-Restraint. In my forthcoming book (available February 2012), I talk about various mechanisms for societal security: how we as a group protect ourselves from the "dishonest minority" within us. I have four types of societal security systems: moral systems -- any internal rewards and punishments;
