This exercise shows that sine can be regarded as the length of the semichord AM in a circle of radius 1, and cosine as the perpendicular distance of the chord from the centre. Until modern times, tables of sines were compiled as tables of chords or semichords, and the name 'sine' is conjectured to have come in a complicated and confused way from the Indian word for semichord.

In general, these two angles may vary with respect to the three coordinates (x, y, z). To represent fold geometries, we consider that α_p and α_l only vary with respect to one coordinate, respectively y and z. This simplification assumes that (1) the folds are not dying out and propagate with a same style when moving along the fold axis; and (2) the folding style is similar.
